

Hannes 'Hansulinho' Kettunen

@Hansulinho

European Runner-Up – #6 Seed at World Final

Hannes Kettunen is a 25-year-old from Vantaa, Finland, who plays for SJK eSports under the gamertag Hansulinho. He placed third in the European Regionals in 2018 and is heading to the World Final for the first time this year. Hansulinho's favorite EA SPORTS™ NHL®19 move is L2 spamming – he likes the one-handed breakaway and describes his HUT style as more offensive.

Kettunen's favorite team to play with is the San Jose Sharks. He lists his favorite current player [and doppelganger] as Sharks defenseman Brent Burns. He'd love to meet Burns in person and challenge him to a game of Chel. The first video game Hansulinho ever played was NHL95 on his PC. A true Finn, Kettunen says salty licorice is his gaming snack of choice. HK's latest gaming experience includes placing fourth at the Tampa Bay Lightning's tournament as well as winning various European team tournaments, including ECL 8 Championship (6v6) and NHLGamer.com.

Hansulinho's childhood hockey idol was Alex Ovechkin of the Washington Capitals and his most memorable hockey moment came in January 2016, when he was one of 13,479 fans at Hartwall Arena in Helsinki as host Finland captured the World Junior Championship with a 4-3 overtime win over Russia. Kettunen is married and works at a school in Finland when he's not practicing for the World Championship.

Hansulinho's World Final HUT roster can be found here.

	GP	Record	GF	GA	+/-
Qualifying Record*	35	33-2	--	--	--
Regional Record	7	4-3	29	24	+5

* Qualifying Record includes both Online Play for qualifying week only & Bracket Play In