glass half full

Josh Morrissey launched the Glass Half Full Foundation with his wife, Margot, to raise awareness and promote positivity around mental health. The isolation and anxiety caused by the COVID-19 pandemic led them to create a foundation focused on supporting mental health initiatives and organizations within their community. The name of the foundation was inspired by Josh's father Tom. Despite losing his battle to cancer during the pandemic, Tom lived by his favorite phrase, "glass half full."
